We are thrilled and honoured to have Sir Peter Gluckman as the opening Speaker.

Born and education in Auckland, Sir Peter has achieved so much and helped so many people during his career.

His awards and honours in the areas of medicine, research and science are well deserved.

Sir Peter's words:

"I'm not in a hurry to retire anytime soon.

I still wake up every day excited to read about science, the little science I still do, and the advancement of science "

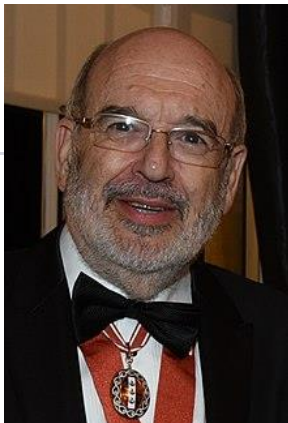

And what is he most proud of?

"This will sound twee, but that I came back to New Zealand and showed that you can do world class research in New Zealand.

That you can sustain forty years of research in a set direction from New Zealand and make a difference.

"Doing something world-class from the bottom of the world and being recognised around the world, and continuing to be engaged.

"New Zealand's challenge is to be relevant to the world and I think science is one of the ways we can maintain that relevance."
